

Google News Alert for: Spine-health, Back Pain & Neck Pain

Center for Spinal Disorders Continues Support of Patient Education by Working with Top Pain Resource, Spine-health

Print article

Refer to a friend

2009-11-03 23:59:22 - The Center of Spinal Disorders is pleased to announce its latest effort for providing continuous education to patients with spinal disorders via participation in the new Spine Center Excellence Program of leading back pain and neck pain resource, Spine-health.com.

THORNTON,
CO. November 3, 2009 &ndash; Further bolstering its commitment to providing the highest standard of patient education and care, the Center for Spinal Disorders is excited to announce its recent participation in the Spine Center Excellence Program of Spine-health, a trusted online resource for patients with back pain and neck pain.

Bringing patients together with spine centers throughout the country, the Spine Center Excellence Program is a noble initiative that maintains similar goals to those emphasized at the nationally-recognized Center for Spinal Disorders.

google_protectAndRun("ads_core.google_render_ad", google_handleError, google_render_ad);

“For a spine practice that strives to be a center of excellence when providing education and care for our patients, joining the Spine Center Excellence Program makes great sense,” according to Dr. Michael Janssen, Orthopedic Surgeon at the Center for Spinal Disorders. “With its doctor-written, peer-reviewed articles on all types of spinal conditions and treatment options, Spine-health clearly understands just how important continued research and education are when helping patients strive for positive medical outcomes. Just as such medical expertise is the strength of Spine-health, it is the same at the Center for Spinal Disorders, where our members not only follow and incorporate the latest trends in spinal care but lecture nationally and internationally about effectively treating conditions of the spine.”

Comprised of dedicated spine surgeons who strive to offer the most advanced technology and medical treatment for patients with back pain, neck pain and other spinal disorders, the Center for Spinal Disorders expands on its surgical expertise by incorporating the medical knowledge of physiatrists, anesthesiologists, neurologists, radiologists, chiropractors, physical therapists, nurse practitioners and many other complementary specialists into its practice.

The end result of this integrated approach is effective and exemplary care for patients who are treated at the Center for Spinal Disorders, which proudly includes cervical and lumbar disc replacement, kyphoplasty, micro spine surgery, spinal injections, spine tumor stabilization, minimally invasive treatment, physical therapy and other surgical and non-surgical treatment options among its diverse medical services.

Teaming with Spine-health.com — which is visited by nearly 1 million visitors each month — is a great opportunity for this Colorado spine center to help even more patients benefit from these services and improve the quality of their lives.

Dr. George Leimbach, Physiatrist at the Center for Spinal Disorders, explains “At the Center for Spinal Disorders, we place a special emphasis on compassion and communication before, during and after our care. We are thus very excited about showcasing these qualities to prospective patients who visit our practice and individual profile pages on Spine-health, and ultimately look forward to helping people from not only Colorado but the entire back pain community get the education they need to seek the treatments they so deserve.”

Learn more about the Center for Spinal Disorders and their spine doctors by visiting their profile on Spine-health: The Center for Spinal Disorders (www.spine-health.com/doctor/spine-center/center-spinal-disorders ).

About Spine-health.com

Spine-health.com (www.spine-health.com) is a recognized back pain and neck pain resource &ldquo;designed to help spine doctors guide their doctors to the most reliable and patient friendly back pain resources on the Internet and confirm the patient education conversation with the doctor during the appointment,&rdquo; says Sylvia Marten, President of Spine-health. The site&rsquo;s strict editorial standards and medical review process have earned it numerous awards for consumer health content excellence and made it a favorite of both consumers and physicians. Spine-health.com publishes thousands of original health articles, doctor advice, and pain blogs, and facilitates the leading back pain message board. Patients can find a back doctor they can trust via Spine-health&rsquo;s Spine Center Directory (www.spine-health.com/doctor/spine-center) and by using Find a Back Doctor or Spine Surgeon (www.spine-health.com/doctor/find-a-doctor) search.